Those summer nights

What's your favourite thing about a British summer? The smell of a barbecue wafting on the breeze? Staying out for a picnic tea? Or that simplest of pleasures, a great British beer garden?

With the hot days come the long nights, and we've got you covered for both this summer.

Enjoy the evening light

Don't wait for the weekend to get your dose of vitamin D. Many of the places we care for are open dawn til dusk, perfect for a much needed walk after a busy working day. The boardwalk at Malham Tarn is ideal for a gentle evening stroll, where you can feel like the only people in the world sometimes. Enjoy dappled light painting the footpaths at Allen Banks, where evening is often the best time to catch a glimpse of wildlife through ancient trees. Or feel the sand between your toes on the Northumberland Coast – the golden sands of Embleton Bay are a good choice for a paddle. Keep your eyes peeled for seals and, if you're really lucky, dolphins playing out at sea.

Not your average beer garden

Every Friday night at Gibside this summer join us for street food and local beers on tap, washed down with a splash of live music. Gibside's 600 acres are all yours for an evening stroll to work up an appetite – think dappled light in the woodlands, catching the last rays over the Derwent Valley on the Skyline walk, or kids' favourite the Strawberry Castle play area.

Summer Solstice

Celebrations to mark the year's longest day have taken place for millennia and they're still going strong in North Yorkshire. At Nunnington Hall the house and gardens are staying open until 8pm on Sunday 23 June for a family garden party. Bring a picnic or treat yourself from the tea garden menu, enjoy games and garden crafts, and kick back to lively music including a rock choir and saxophone group. Or join a ranger on the Northumberland Coast for a late evening walk to mark the Summer Solstice and to look for nocturnal wildlife.

Even better: just don't go home!

Love the idea of staying at your favourite National Trust place after hours? You can wake up there for sunrise too in one of our on site holiday cottages or campsites. Watch the sunrise over the Langdale valley from a family size camping pod, enjoy breakfast with roaming red deer on your doorstep at Lyme or wake up to the sound of the sea from the lighthouse keepers' cottage at Souter.

Garden secrets

©National Trust Images/Hugh Moulton/ok

With longer and lighter days, this is the time lots of us flex our green fingers. Our gardeners share their top tips to get the most from your garden this summer:

1 A snip in time

A little snip after flowering can often lead to a second flush later in the summer. At Nostell the gardeners estimated they spend around 150 hours deadheading to make sure the roses bloom all summer long. Lavender also benefits from a haircut just after flowering. The plant saves energy by not seeding so you'll be rewarded with next year's display. Sniff out these highly scented plants in the Gertrude Jekyll walled garden at Lindisfarne Castle - which has just won the Countryfile Magazine Garden of the Year for 2019 - and in the newly created fragrant garden at Goddards.

3 Plant for beauty and taste

Decorative fruit and veg can make lovely additions to your summer menu. Make a plot to plate salad for the BBQ with trailing tomatoes and English marigolds, or grow mint to add to a cooling drink. Just keep it contained to stop it taking over. Get inspiration for growing your own from the walled gardens at Beningbrough Hall and Gibside or the herb border at East Riddlesden Hall.

4 Follow nature and slow down

Grass tends to grow less in the peak of summer, so the best thing to do is raise the cutting blade or hold off mowing to reduce scorching. Instead, take some time out for a picnic: you can't go wrong next to the summerhouse at Seaton Delaval Hall or in the Water Garden at Fountains Abbey.

2 Give your garden what it wants

Water butts are a great investment. Rain water is pH neutral with less chlorine than tap water so is better for your plants. Make the most of any watering you do by picking the coolest part of the day, in the morning or evening. Imagine the watering needed to keep the flowers in the gardens at Wallington, Ormesby Hall and Cragside looking so colourful.

5 Let nature do its thing

Wild flowers not only look beautiful but also attract pollinators, so if you've got space to sow some wildflower seeds you'll be rewarded with colour and wildlife. Take inspiration from the wild flowers at Rievaulx Terrace or along the Durham Coast; or join the crowds (of bees and butterflies) making the most of the meadows at Nunnington Hall.

Explore Wentworth Castle Gardens

Join us as we begin a long-term journey with Barnsley Council and Northern College to nurture a new future for Wentworth Castle Gardens.

Re-opening this summer, after being closed for two years, South Yorkshire's only Grade I-registered landscape has 63 acres of gardens and 500 acres of parkland to explore.

An endless variety of gentle walking trails, picnic and hide and seek spots will keep you occupied for many outdoor adventures. Step into the fairy-tale-like "ancient ruins" of Stainborough Castle and see how many other follies, special monuments and intriguing garden buildings you can find. Pause to take in the uninterrupted views of the Yorkshire countryside down to the valleys below.

Adventure around the maze-like Union Jack Garden, winding paths of the mysterious Fernery, wilderness paths in the woodland and Victorian Flower Garden. Spot unusual plants and keep your eyes and ears peeled for wildlife including woodpeckers, treecreepers, hares and insects.

Hear the whispering leaves around you in Lady Lucy's Walk, an avenue of towering lime trees. As you head out into the rolling parkland, look out for deer and bursts of colour from summer wildflowers.

Don't miss the Victorian Conservatory, full of exotic plants. One of the last surviving winter gardens in England, it was among the first places to have electric lighting (even ahead of Buckingham Palace).

Located just off the M1, other nearby attractions include Barnsley Museums, Nostell, Clumber Park and Hardwick Hall.

Read lots more about the history of this intriguing place in the interview with Andrew Morrison, Lead Curator for the North, in this issue of the National Trust magazine.

Act one is underway

Seaton Delaval Hall is famed as a place of drama, theatricality and playfulness and as the National Lottery Heritage Fund-supported project gets underway we're uncovering more of the story.

Charles II is wheeled away to temporary storage

What's the plan?

Re-roofing the West Wing and installing a new heating system and breathable paint.

Reimagining the landscape to reflect the 1781 estate plan, including new paths and planting.

New café in the Brew House and toilets in the Carriage House.

Re-flooring the basement and conserving the spiral staircases and porticos.

Brand new play area and playful interventions throughout the site.

Collaboration with local community groups, schools and partners including Northumbria University.

Work's well underway to make these plans happen and already...

5,100 metres of acid free tissue paper and 600 metres of bubble wrap were used to pack and store 5,000 items from the West Wing collection. Work has now commenced on re-roofing the wing, which will be closed until 2021.

20,640 bricks were taken down and rebuilt to stabilise the west wall of the walled garden.

7,000 welsh slates were removed from the Brew House roof, 85% of which will be reused.

1,270 new trees are being planted to replace ones that have been recently felled or thinned.

1 cannonball dating back to 1650 was found under the foundations of the Brew House.

If you visit us this summer, the hall will look a little bit different to what you're used to, but you'll see up close how we're working to look after this special place.

Help us to make all this happen at nationaltrust.org.uk/seaton-delaval-hall-appeal

5 minutes with Kate Martin, Coastal Officer for the North

From Yorkshire's Jurassic Coast to the wildlife havens of the Farne Islands in the North East, Kate supports staff and volunteers to look after the coastline.

What are your favourite things to do at this time of year?

The magnesian limestone grasslands on the Durham Coast are bursting with scented colourful wildflowers. I love taking in the salty air, and looking out for the rare Durham Argus butterfly. Or walking along the dramatic cliffs between Robin Hood's Bay and Ravenscar, listening to the cry of the seabirds and feeling the sea breeze on my face.

What's the challenge of looking after our coast?

Wind and water are constantly reshaping our coastline. We can't look after this alone, so we work with local communities and partners to help us look after these special landscapes.

Climate change and sea level rise means we need to look at how we can help nature adapt and how we understand and work with coastal processes.

We're working with communities, partners, visitors, and our members to look after our coastline and to share these stories, helping provide access so people can enjoy these places for many years to come.

Seeing thousands of seabirds, including puffins and terns, and seals on the Farne Islands is always magical, but I also enjoy finding the hidden world in rock pools all along the rocky coastline of Yorkshire and the North East, getting up close to species including squat lobsters and blue rayed limpets.

First There Is A Mountain

Help sculpt Seahouses beach on 4 August into thousands of mountains of sand using hollow scale models of five of the world's most famous mountains. Katie Paterson's artwork invites you to consider how coastlines have changed across millennia.

A masterclass in interior design

Nostell

'A chair is a very difficult object. A skyscraper is almost easier. That is why Chippendale is famous.'

Mies van de Rohe, Time magazine, 18 Feb 1957.

From the chairs he became best known for, to chopping blocks and full interiors, there are over 100 pieces of Thomas Chippendale's 18th-century design to find at Nostell. The Otley man remains one of England's most influential designers. 'Interior Worlds' shines a spotlight on some of his more intricate pieces, while the Obelisk Marbling Company celebrate Chippendale's renowned attention to detail, recreating the marbling effect that decorated the interiors of some of his pieces.

Functional and practical

For a contrast to the ornate designs at Nostell, take a trip to the Boosbeck show room at Ormesby Hall this summer. With a recreated furniture shop and using previously unseen collection items, we're sharing the story of how Jim and Ruth Pennyman helped local unemployed miners develop a new trade in furniture making back in the 1930s.

Help us restore Nostell's dolls' house

The Nostell dolls' house is an intricately crafted historic house in miniature and is arguably the best example of its kind, but at over 300 years old it's now in vital need of conservation.

We're raising money to help restore its intricate parts and fabric and to create a new display to bring it to life for visitors and we'd love your support.

What's your sports personality?

Summer is the perfect time to get active outdoors, especially if you find a beautiful setting to up your motivation levels. Whether you're a sprinter or a rambler, find something to suit your sporting style.

I'd like to try something new...

If you're seeking out a new experience, grab a wetsuit and try kayaking at Cragside. Where better to spend a day on the water, than the first home in the world powered by hydroelectricity? If you're looking for a family day out with a difference, pack a picnic, hire a bike and try out the Dragon cycle trail at Wallington. Or, mix it up a bit at Gibside during the summer holidays, where each week you can try out a different sport at the activity zone on Green Close field.

Wallington

I want to beat my personal best...

Whether you're getting ready for a race or just trying to push yourself, there are plenty of training routes to choose from. Build up to the Great North Run with Great Run Local events at Gibside and Souter Lighthouse or ease in with a parkrun at Nostell and Fountains Abbey.

Fountains Abbey and Studley Royal

I want a workout...

Get your heart pumping and discover Nordic walking at Nostell. Once you learn the technique, this method of walking with poles is easier on the knees and gives a great full-body workout. If you're feeling more adventurous, you can try sea-kayaking or stand-up paddle-boarding on the Yorkshire Coast, or moorland mountain biking in the Yorkshire Dales.

I'll take it easy...

Head to Goddards House and Garden for bowls and tennis on the lawn, followed (of course) by strawberries and Pimms on the terrace during Wimbledon. Or take inspiration from the Pennyman family at Ormesby Hall and enjoy a round of mini golf in the garden.

Once you've worked up an appetite, stop off at one of our cafés or kiosks and find a healthy snack, or a sinful treat. You've earned it!

Come rain or shine

Marsden Moor

The long summer days are here. It's time to pack a picnic, grab some factor 50 and get outdoors. Surely it won't rain, will it?

Our summer weather can be unpredictable, but family days out needn't wait for the perfect forecast.

Take to the water

If you're having a go at water sports, who cares if it's a bit drizzly? Tumbleton Lake at Cragside is the perfect spot for trying activities like canoeing, kayaking or stand-up paddle-boarding, and you can also have a go at extreme rock pooling and coastering at Souter Lighthouse. Insects love a bit of rain too and the little pond at Washington Old Hall is a great place to see them up close. Look out for pond skaters, the rowing action they've got generates incredible speed!

Make mud pies

Rain is an essential ingredient in our perfect mud pie recipe. Cook up a feast at East Riddlesden Hall's famous mud pie kitchen. Or find a soggy spot at Gibside and create something to add to the muddy menu.

Splash in a puddle

There are few things as tempting as jumping in puddles while you're wearing your wellies. See who can make the biggest splash in the streams that criss cross Marsden Moor and in the grounds of all your favourite places.

Explore indoors

If the weather is too rotten to get outside, there's plenty to see and do inside too. Take part in a hands-on workshop at Nostell and learn all about famous Yorkshire craftsman Thomas Chippendale. Or if you want to discover the natural world, head to Nunnington Hall to explore their fascinating 'Bare Bones' exhibition, featuring real animal skeletons! You can also try your hand at printmaking at Cherryburn and family craft sessions at Beningbrough Hall, while at Ormesby Hall, there'll be Treasure Island themed activities all summer.

You'll find even more activities for sunny and rainy days on the website and in What's On.

News round-up

Fighting floods in Calderdale

You may remember reading in the autumn newsletter about the fantastic work local community volunteers from SlowtheFlow, Calderdale have been doing to help with flood management at Hardcastle Craggs.

Following the success of this work, we've secured a further £2.6m* of funding, the biggest investment in natural flood management the National Trust has ever seen. This means we can continue work at Hardcastle Craggs, and also now at Marsden Moor and, in partnership with Yorkshire Water, at Gorpley reservoir.

Find out how you can get involved at nationaltrust.org.uk/hardcastle-craggs

*Thanks to £1.3 million Growth Deal funding from Leeds City Region Enterprise Partnership and £1.3 million either in funds or in-kind support from other partners.

New volunteer army helping protect Hadrian's Wall

Experts at Newcastle University have been given a National Lottery grant of £1.17million to train a new army of community volunteers to help look after Hadrian's Wall.

Thanks to the Hadrian's Wall Community Archaeology Project (WallCAP), volunteers will learn skills such as digital surveying, conservation and geological work.

We care for six of the most visited miles of this UNESCO World Heritage Site. We'll be working with the project team to help visitors understand how they can play their part in looking after Hadrian's Wall, so the monument can be enjoyed by future generations.
